What Other Editors Have To Say

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

We have heard much about "the forgotten man," especially in the last campaign. Just who the forgotten man is in America appears to depend upon the viewpoint of the writer, some contending that he is the laboring man, some believing he is the farmer, and some alleging that he is the poor tax-payer who has had to bear all the expense of government and welfare work. Then comes the man who thinks he is funny when he says the forgotten man is Herbert Hoover. We have been thinking the matter over and have concluded that the forgotten man is none of these, but that the really forgotten man is Jesus Christ and that in forgetting Him the people also forgot the great principles which He enunciated nearly two thousands years ago. They forgot His sermon on the mount; they forgot His parable of the good Samaritan; they forgot His injunction to love one's neighbor as one's self; they forgot His life of unselfish devotion; and as a direct result of all this forgetting selfishness and greed dominated human activities; personal gain, pride of possession; power of wealth, social ambitions, desire for luxury and ease and gratification of personal desires became to a much greater extent the dominant factors of life, crowding out that which was better. We are not attempting to preach a sermon, but are merely stating it is our honest opinion that Jesus Christ is "the forgotten man" and that in forgetting Him the world has paid and is paying a very severe penalty.—The Cassopolis Vigilant.

Calling all cars. Calling all cars. Get out of the road while the boys are making a quick run over to Greenbush township, Clinton county, where one of the fair ladies of the countryside was indulging in an old-fashioned tussle with John Barleycorn after all that has been done to make 3.2 the drink of the masses, if not of the ages. As a result of the little woman's party one of the shire farmers was hauled into court when a search of his home disclosed gallons upon gallons of moonshine whiskey, which it is said was being peddled in the neighborhood at so much per jolt. It is certainly discouraging to us men folks after going nerts for years to get nice foamy beer for the girls to drink and then find them still clinging to hooch.—Ionia News.

HOW TO RUIN A BOY

Michigan has not lacked nor is there present lack of horrible examples regarding wealth and boyhood. Arthur Rich would probably have been an outstanding young man had he been denied some of the luxuries he enjoyed. The Flint woman would still have been alive and the police would not be scouring the United States to apprehend Balfie MacDonald had the father thrown some of his wealth into the river instead of willing it to his family. If a boy has a heritage of good health, good common sense and a taste for the better things of life he has no need of an inheritance of cash. In fact, in so many cases

THE USABLE RIVER

(By Henry Stephan, Grayling)

I came to Grayling 52 years ago next August. I was then 11 years old; we came directly to Grayling from LeHarre, France. My father brought his family here to take up a homestead and there were five boys and three girls, and with my mother, there were in all ten in the family. There was no depot or hotel at Grayling then, so when the train stopped they dropped off what we had brought with us, a feather tick, etc. My father then began looking around to hire a team to take us to Mrs. Horton's, eight miles east of Grayling, he finally found one and hired it. There was a load on the wagon, so we all walked behind it. I can still remember that "Rube" Babbitt and Levi VanBuren were then cutting the road east of Grayling, some eight miles or so; it was noon when we came upon them and I can still see them frying pork in a frying pan and getting their dinner in the open.

We reached Mrs. Horton's homestead that evening and my father rented her woodshed and we moved in; there was no floor in the woodshed. We also had to pay rent to bake bread in Mrs. Horton's oven, and soon my sisters all learned to bake bread. It was not very long before my father went to Grayling and bought lumber from Salling, Hanlon Company and made a raft and started down stream 16 miles by river. His raft ran aground several times so he took off his shoes, rolled up his pants and waded to float his raft. On the way down, the sweepers (overhanging trees) swept his shoes and lunch off the raft and he could not find them. He was a tired and hungry man when he reached Jasper landing; this landing was one of very few places that had a wagon trail whereby one could get to the stream between Grayling and Wakeley's bridge.

When he started building he had to pay Levi VanBuren $5.00 per trip, to haul his lumber to the homestead situated NE^{1/4} of SW^{1/4} of Section Five, T26N, Range 2 W. At first he built a leanto with the lumber and we moved into that until such time as he built his first house. I forgot to mention that Father could not buy bread in Grayling then so he had to buy a barrel of crackers instead for his large, hungry family. When we finally got the house built we cleared land for crops; at that time there were a number of settlers whom I remember as Thomas Lound, Bradleys, Nick Shellenberger, McKinley, Knetch, Bell and others. Frank Bell, one of the sons, is now a circuit judge in the Upper Peninsula. Nick Shellenberger lived by hunting and fishing; he was the father of Grant, Wesley, Will and Charley. He would come to our house and say to my brother Will, "Let's go down the river to South Branch and get a deer." Those days there were no hunting seasons, so they would shine and kill two deer, one for each family. Arriving at the mouth of the South Branch they would build a fire, cook and eat a meal, then they would point their boat back upstream the 10 miles and spear grayling, suckers, and pilot fish. When they would get back to Nick's landing they generally had a tub full of fish which they would salt and store away.

Some of the first English language I learned, was to say, "Come in Nick." Nick came to our house often, so after hearing my oldest brother say this when he knocked at the door I picked it up. One day I was left alone at home and someone knocked at the door and I said "Come in Nick," but it turned out to be John Leece. He laughed so hard he could hardly stand up. I was sent to school but could not talk English and the teacher could not talk French, so we just made signs to each other. Two of my old schoolmates are still living in Grayling—Mrs. William Foley (nee Lizzie Bradley) and Mrs. Charles Amidon, also a Bradley girl. Mrs. John Leece could speak French so she helped us with our English.

Something like forty years ago all of the people living in this county had a picnic on the banks of the AuSable river. The place where it was held is still known today as the picnic ground. Its location is the NE^{1/4} of SE^{1/4}, Section 4, T26N, Range 2 West, and

GRAYLING GETS NEW INDUSTRY

FOREST PROPERTIES, INC. TO MANF HANDLES

To Share Plant of Grayling Box Company

Forest Properties, Inc., a Milwaukee concern, has made arrangements with Grayling Box Company to use necessary space in the local plant for the manufacturing of wooden handles of all types. John Bruun has been a member of the Board of Directors of Forest Properties, Inc., for the past couple of years and this manufacturing arrangement with Grayling Box Company was effected through his efforts.

Forest Properties, Inc., has carried out quite extensive experiments in the manufacturing of handles and test runs of thousands of pieces have been made during the past few months in the plant of the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Co., at Hermansville in the Upper Peninsula. The results so far obtained, in the opinion of the management of the company, now warrant getting into production on a larger scale.

Mr. Verne Boynton, vice president of the company, will be in charge of the Grayling plant. Mr. Boynton is a civil engineer and a graduate of the University of Winnipeg and the University of Pennsylvania. He has also had many years of actual experience in industrial engineering.

Mr. Emil Christensen, who is a very capable engineer with a great deal of experience, will be here from now on to closely supervise the daily work and take charge of things whenever Mr. Boynton is absent. Although the main holdings of the company are in the Upper Peninsula, considerable acreage has been acquired in this territory so that raw material will be used partly from the company owned lands and partly through purchase of logs and bolts as finished lumber from other sources.

It is planned to employ as much local labor as possible and although this Grayling branch of the Forest Properties, Inc., will be started on a modest scale, there is reason to believe that it will in time grow into a sizeable concern. We are sure that the news of the establishment of this industry in Grayling will be most welcome.

A number of small industries in a community is better than one large one, for it generally means that there is some operations going on at all times, and at least a part of the workers are employed. With the closing of a large manufacturing concern, that means that hundreds of people are out of work.

Mr. Bruun deserves the gratitude of the people of Grayling, as does also T. P. Peterson, manager of the Grayling Box Company, for their efforts in making possible this new industry for Grayling. Mr. Boynton and Mr. Christensen are most welcome among us and we sincerely trust that their Grayling venture will succeed in successing their most earnest hopes.

ALUMNI HOP FRIDAY NIGHT

Everyone is invited to attend the first annual Alumni Hop to be given by the G. H. S. Alumni association at the school gymnasium tomorrow night (Friday). The members of this year's graduating class and their class advisor and the members of the Board of Education and their wives are to be guests of honor. There should be a large number out to greet this year's large class of some 35 young men and women. In former years a banquet has been given to honor the graduates, but the Alumni are this year giving everyone an opportunity to enjoy the party with them, by giving an informal dance.

Besides dancing to Davis' Northerners of West Branch, there will be a program of musical numbers and tap dancing. Some of the young men of Lieut. Bates' C. C. No. 661 will sing and there will be other enjoyable entertainment.

Tasty decorations will make the large gym attractive and everything will be done to make this first annual Hop a most pleasant and memorable affair. The admission charge will be 50¢ for gents and 25¢ for ladies. Dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

POTPOURRI

An Early Taxi-Meter

The old familiar sound of the taxi-meter isn't anything new. On the crudest kind of a public conveyance, hand drawn, used in China three centuries ago, there was a mechanical register in the form of a drum which was automatically struck by a hammer at the end of each mile.

BOYS WRITE FROM CAMP BRADY

Camp Brady,
Casual Co. C. C.
June 3, 1938

Dear Mr. Schumann.

We received your ever welcome paper and we all left the mess line to read the news, and it sort of perked us up.

We are all enjoying the experience of camp life, but it is nothing new to some of us that have served in the army before. We have the run of the camp and have no duties to perform as yet. We call ourselves the Bates detail. We have all been examined, been vaccinated and had a shot in the arm, and the arms are a little sore, but that's all in the day's work.

The mosquitoes are a little larger and fiercer than the Au-Sable brand.

We have in our tent Earl Wood, Harry Hum, Ted Callahan, John Deckrow, Oliver Lovel, Elroy Barber, Ora Ingalls, Isaac Jendron. The other two boys are in a tent next to us, John Schofield and Melvin Marshall. We get plenty of chow, have straw mattresses to sleep on, and two blankets.

We left Grayling at 4:45, arriving at Mackinaw 7:10; left Mackinaw 7:50, arriving in St. Ignace 8:45. Then climbed in the dinkies, arriving in Trout Lake; waited an hour, transferred and arrived in the Soo at 1:35. Were met by the Guard at Fort Gates, escorted to some sandwiches and then took showers and physical exams. By 8:00 o'clock we were written up and established on a larger scale.

Mr. Verne Boynton, vice president of the company, will be in charge of the Grayling plant. Mr. Boynton is a civil engineer and a graduate of the University of Winnipeg and the University of Pennsylvania. He has also had many years of actual experience in industrial engineering.

Twenty-four Crawford county men boarded the Michigan-Central train here Tuesday night, bound for Camp Custer to unite for work in the Civilian Conservation corps. Two weeks of training will be received at that camp after which the men will be returned to Crawford county. Here's the list of those from Crawford county now at Camp Custer:

In the "Higgins Camp" group are:

From Grayling—Peter Failing, Walter Buck, David White, Willard Harwood and Charles Hanover.

South Branch township—Henry Scott, Everett Corwin, and Claud Leline.

In the "Pine Camp" group are: From Grayling—Howard Smith, Archie Arnold, George Woods, Fred Tompkins, Otto Eden, Burwell Griffith, Robert King, Lee Sherman, Chester Lozon and George Wend.

From Frederic—C. S. Barber, Walter Kraske, Oscar Smock, Kenneth Burkhardt, Chester Burke, and Leo Nelson.

Roy Holmberg, who has been in charge of the county enlistments says that those listed in the "Higgins Camp" group will, upon their return be engaged in woods work at the Hanson State Military reservation. Those for the "Pine Camp" group will be located at the Hartwick Memorial Pines park. Their enlistments call for six months of service.

Mr. Holmberg says he is not informed as to the amount of salary these men will receive, but is certain that it will not be less than $30 per month, together with their board and clothing during the period of their enlistment. It is understood that the men will receive about $5.00 for personal use while the balance of their salaries will be paid to their dependents.

CHEVROLET INCREASES PRODUCTION

With a total output of 68,588 new cars and trucks in May, the Chevrolet Motor Company in the first five months of this year already has built more than 70 percent as many units as in the full year of 1932. W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager announced today.

E. M. T. DIRECTORS AT HOUGHTON LAKE

Camp Brady,
Casual Co. C. C.
June 3, 1938

In answer to a call by President Al Weber of Cheboygan, the directors of the East Michigan Tourist association met Saturday evening at Johnson's Rustic Tavern at Houghton Lake. There were fully forty directors present and matters pertaining to the good of the organization and its objects were very ably presented by the officers and members of the directorate.

Indications were that everywhere in the resort region of Michigan there is the feeling that if it were not for the tourist, business here would be very light. The tourist, or the fellow and his family coming to Michigan during the warm season of the year, even tho he may not have gobs of money to spend, is sure to leave some money here that we would not get were it not for his coming.

It was further pointed out at the meeting that some of those families who usually spend their vacations in the more remote regions of the country or abroad, were now glad to come to Michigan for economic reasons and that here he is finding the very thing he is looking for—comfort, rest and recreation. New enthusiasts are being developed for the things Northern Michigan has to offer.

The Eastern Michigan Tourist Association, thru its secretary T. P. Marston and its organization in Bay City has spent a lot of money in helping to advertise the recreational resources and attractions of Northern Michigan and each year new faces are seen here—new families cast their lots among us. Constant scientific efforts are being made by the organization each year to educate the people of other states that Michigan is a great place at which to spend their vacations. Mr. Marston's long years of contact with this work has widened his acquaintance with outside resorters, many of whom visit the Log Office annually. The promises he has held out in his advertising on behalf of Northern Michigan have been so faithfully fulfilled that this region now not only receives annual visits from these latter are now actual home owners among us.

But it has been an up-hill grind. It has taken hard and diligent effort on the part of the Log Office officials to keep this thread of persistent advertising from cracking at times. Money is not so plentiful these days. Many former generous contributors to the resources of the Tourist association have had to cut down their appropriations and even some of the boards of supervisors of the counties that have directly benefitted from the work of the Association, have cut down on their appropriations and some have even failed to make any kind of appropriation toward the work.

BY I. C. ALL

After going to all the trouble and expense of having their slacks widened and tailored perfectly, one would expect some consideration from the fairer sex and even perhaps a little date on the side. But woe is me! Last Saturday night proved that they are a perfect "flop," at least that is the way a large number of C. C. C. fellows from 672 felt who found that it takes more than wide bottom trousers to make the ladies' hearts flutter. Many even went so far as to vow they were going to buy full dress suits before they went on a "lark" another Saturday night. As if that would make any difference! Some of them still don't realize you can always tell a C. C. C. by his feet.

"Quick, you mugs!! Get up. Here comes 'Corky' with a club!"

That is a common exclamation to be heard almost any morning over at C. C. C. Camp 672 as Sergeant Korkey comes down the tent-rows to roll out all the "owl-eyes" who persist in sleeping after the Reveille call in the morning. And how those fellows come rolling out! Those who don't find themselves sprawled on the floor wondering what it's all about. There's no place for "sleepy-heads" in our camp.

But one fellow (almost) pulled a fast one on the Sergeant the other morning. Sergeant Korkey was about to leave the tent, thinking that all the occupants were up, when a second look made him suspicious of a slight hump on one of the bunks. After pulling blankets for five or ten minutes, he was rewarded by finding a sleepy-eyed fellow staring up at him from somewhere down in his tick.

The Sergeant's first and only exclamation was "Lord sakes, what are you? A deep sea diver?"

It seems quite a bit of consternation has arisen in the ranks of 672 since a certain incident last Saturday night. A group of fellows were boarding a gravel dump truck enroute to a dance when, for some unknown reason, the dump truck took a notion to dump. Needless to say, there was a grand sliding party which ended in a pile at the back of the truck. Do we have fun or don't we?

But putting all joking aside, our camp is beginning to function properly, and there is a growing satisfaction in being a member of Company 672. The men are working regularly at the nursery and on the State forest lands. They are well satisfied with their jobs and homesickness is the only possible reason anyone could truthfully give for deserting camp.

The camp library will open soon, and there are only a few books now available. We wish to appeal to the readers of the Crawford Avalanche for loans or gifts of any books which can be obtained for our use here at camp. We can guarantee the best possible care of such literature, since we have a clean, well-kept building to use as a reading room. It will be very greatly appreciated if anyone who has such a loan or information as to where one may be obtained will write us a card letting us know about it. Remember our address is: C. C. C. Company 672, Camp Higgins, Grayling, Michigan.

A baseball game with Beaver Creek featured Sunday afternoon's entertainment. The Company team won 18 to 6. It was the first of a series of games which our company plans to hold with outside teams. The hard ball team has not yet been organized, although there is much talk of getting one together. Anyone desiring soft-ball games should get in touch with us to arrange a schedule.

HOLD MAY DAY MEETING

COUNTY CHILD HEALTH AND WELFARE GIVE PROGRAM

The County Child Health and Welfare held a May Day meeting at Grayling Tourist park on Thursday, June 1st.

The day found some 65 people gathered together from all parts of the county in behalf of the health and welfare of Crawford county.

The day was ideal for this basket-lunch and program; and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The speakers gave very interesting talks; and reports from various townships and Grayling organizations were both interesting and worth while listening to, as all during the past winter worked very hard—so as to lessen the burden of hard times for our children and their homes.

After a bounteous pot luck lunch and community singing, Mr. T. Hanson welcomed the people to the City Park, and commented on the good and help this unselfish work is doing for the children, and what it means to the growing child in the future in both body and mind.

Supt. Burns gave an address on the health methods carried out by the teachers in the Grayling School. His talk was indeed educational and practical. He outlined the procedure used in the school, including morning inspection, so as to safeguard against contagion and its value in building good health habits in the boys and girls. Also included the diet and what it means to building our future citizens. The value of having body defects corrected early in life, especially before entering school. His ideal is for a healthy body and mind for each child entering school—then the teachers can go far in the present school health work in training the little ones through the grades for a happy useful life.

Dr. Stanley Steely spoke on the work of the Children's Fund and what it has to offer the community. He spoke of the organization, stressing that no money comes from the taxpayer but was a gift of $10,000 given outright by Senator Couzens for the health, welfare and happiness of the children of Michigan and elsewhere in the world. Outlined the duties of the nurses working in Health Unit No. 1, combining Crawford, Roscommon, Kalkaska and Missaukee counties. Also the dentist and how his work is carried out by spending three months in each county. Also his own work as Health Director, stressing the importance of controlling contagion; value of having pure milk and water to drink. School work was mentioned in its various phases in relation to building health. He also mentioned the controlling board of the Children's Fund in Detroit; who go over carefully the work being done and outline the work for the future. This executive board is composed of McPherson, Browning, James Couzens, Frank Couzens, Hugo A. Freund, M. D., Arthur L. Lacy, Wm. J. Norton, and Clarence E. Wilcox, all of Detroit, where they are outstanding in various fields of work.

Next came the reports from the townships given by local chairman in charge.

MRS. PHOEBE OWENS PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Phoebe Owens, wife of the late George F. Owens, and a resident of Crawford county for the past 52 years, passed away at her home here Tuesday evening at 8:40 o'clock. The elderly lady suffered a paralytic stroke several days ago, which left her in a very feeble condition and life gradually ebbed away.

Mrs. Owens was one of Grayling's pioneers and through her many years of residence here made many friends among both the old and the young. And she could tell you tales of the early life of Grayling which were very interesting.

Venturing into marriage at an early age she was left a widow at the tender age of 16. Sometime later she was married to John Kelly and to the union one daughter was born, now Mrs. Davis H. Ward. Her third marriage was to Rastus Purchase, a well known game warden of this county, and some time after Mr. Purchase passed away she was united in marriage to George F. Owens, a well known resident of Lovells and Grayling. Mr. Owens passed away a few years ago and Mrs. Owens had made her home between Grayling and Ferndale since.

Besides her daughter Mrs. Ward, who with her family have been making their home with Mrs. Owens here there are six grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at Michelson Memorial church, with Rev. H. J. Salmon officiating. Interment will be in Elmwood cemetery.

Those from out of town who are expected for the funeral are Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stolliker of Ferndale; Ralph Routier, Ray Owens, Detroit; Charles Owens, Maple Forest.

E. parsonage in Lake Orion by Rev. F. R. Walker. The bride was formerly Miss June Best, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Best of that place. Milton was born in Grayling and is a graduate of the Lake Orion High School and also a graduate in Optometry of the University of Rochester, N. Y. At present he is associated in business with his father Dr. Hathaway at his office in Pontiac. His many friends extend congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends.

On patrol duty around Higgins lake the first of the week, Conservation Officer Connor saw a large bald fowling in the water and with the aid of a boat captured it after a hard fight. The bird proved to be a fine specimen of bald eagle, which had dropped into the water because of an injured wing.

The bird was about 24 inches tall and had a wing spread of about 75 inches, and said to be about fifty years of age. Three or four of these birds have made

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results.

Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra-precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

years, has left California and returned to Centralia, Wash. He sends his best wishes to all the "Old boys."

The "Avalanche" of April 20, 1882 said, "A railroad running from Manistee to Alpena, by way of Grayling would be a good investment for parties with capital, and would be almost an airline passing through some good farming country and heavy pine."

After 27 years our statement has been accepted as true and the road is practically here. Mr. C. W. Amidon is building the bridges across the AuSable to admit the road into our village.

The graduating class of 1910 is composed of the following: Earl Woodburn, Pres.; Harry J. Conning, sec'y. and treas.; Laura J. Munn, Ruth Barlow, Louise N. Peterson, Ethel M. Tromble and Wm. E. McCullough. Harry Connine is valedictorian and the class motto is "End There Is None."

Miss Johnson caught a 2½ foot pike near the electric light dam which weighed 7½ pounds.

REDUCING THE NAVY

Reports from Washington indicate that sixty vessels of the Navy will be taken out of the fleet and laid up under the fifty-five million dollar cut in naval expenditures ordered by the President. Vessels to be laid up include all classes, battleships, destroyers, cruisers, submarines, and one aircraft carrier. A reduction of the enlisted strength from 79,700 to 77,000 men is also included in the plan which is now before the President for decision.

What has become of the old fashioned financier who could tell you, if you deposited a hundred dollars today, how much money you would have in the bank at the end of a hundred years?

DISPELS MYSTERY OF BANK BUSINESS

Country Banker Explains to Neighbors How Banking
Cooperates With Other
Business

A COUNTRY banker recently prepared the following simplified statement for his neighbors on just how a bank goes about helping them:

"It is the most important part of a bank's business to lend money. Of all the money deposited in a bank, the law requires that a certain percentage be kept on hand as a reserve to meet the demands of depositors. It is the business of its officers to lend the balance conservatively and safely.

"The loans of a properly managed bank are invariably made to those it believes are able to repay, and always on condition that they be repaid at a stipulated time.

"The promise of an individual to repay a loan to a bank on a certain date is as sacredly inviolable as the promise of a bank to repay its depositors on demand, or, in the case of a certificate of deposit, on the date it falls due. When it comes to be known of an individual that he always pays, his credit is established and his bank is always glad to extend him needed accommodations.

"A well managed bank never capitalizes industries. That is, it does not place its loans in fixed form, but puts them where they are to be used for temporary requirements and where they will be taken up at the time specified.

"How a Bank Lends
Secretary of the Navy, Swanson, has rescinded the order which stopped the Navy and Marine Corps bands from going on the air over radio networks. Due to strong and nationwide protests from schools, societies, hospitals, institutions, and private individuals, who had been enjoying the high quality of the music, it is felt the broadcasts should continue. The broadcasts were stopped to eliminate competition with civilian musical groups.

"It is not the function of a bank to become a partner in industries, nor could it be legitimately done with the money of depositors. Its loans must be kept in liquid form, that is, repayable in cash at stated intervals.

"A bank must use the greatest discrimination in making loans. A stranger cannot expect accommodations. It is customary for the borrower to make a statement of his financial affairs, which is kept in the bank's records. It is a punishable offense to make a false statement for the purpose of borrowing funds.

"Naturally, in their dealing with the regular depositors of the bank, its officers become well acquainted with their characters and their resources and are thus in a position to determine how large a line of credit each one is entitled to. That is one of the great advantages of being a bank depositor.

"The man who knows how to get into debt wisely, that is, who borrows money with which to make more money through legitimate enterprise, is the borrower whom the bank is looking for. By the frank interchange of opinion and a free discussion of various projects, the borrower is often guided and helped by his banker.

"In order to procure a line of credit at a bank three things are important:

"1. A statement of assets showing a basis of credit in the way of invested capital, or collateral of sufficient value to cover amount of loan, or

"2. An endorser whose credit is established at the bank; and

"3. Average deposits of a sufficient amount to justify the extension of the desired accommodation."

AS WILL ROGERS SEES IT
Will Rogers recently told why the banks had got into trouble. "Don't blame it all on the bankers," he said. "When we all needed money they loaned it to us—but when they needed it we couldn't pay it back."

L. R. SCHOENMANN TO DIRECT CONSERVATION WORK

Designation of L. R. Schoenmann to organize and direct the conservation work of the 43 state camps which will be operated by the Department of Conservation under the President's Emergency Work program has been announced by Director George R. Morgan.

Since 1928 Schoenmann has been in charge of the Land Economic Survey which has now mapped some ten million acres in the northern counties of the forest and ex-forest districts.

From its inception, Schoenmann has been identified with the emergency conservation work, having represented Michigan at Washington conferences and having been in constant contact with the several United States and state agencies which are cooperating in the camp organization.

Instructions from Washington are that the camps are being allotted to the several states on the basis of population, and Michigan has been allotted 43 camps to contain some 200 men each.

The preliminary estimates and suggested camp locations were prepared and submitted to the federal offices. From Lansing they were sent to the Regional Forester of the U. S. Forest Service at Milwaukee, and then, as approved in that office, they were sent to Washington for final consideration and approval.

The detailed estimates as to tools and equipments for the approved camps, and as to the work to be done in each camp area are now being worked up under Schoenmann's supervision.

The enrollment of the Camp Workers will be conducted through the welfare agencies, in the same manner as the enrollments for the National Forest Camps which are already in operation. All applicants for jobs as foremen and camp superintendents must conform to the federal regulations covering personal qualifications, training and experiences, with references, and regular application blanks must be filed out and filed before any such applications can receive consideration. All selections of personnel for such supervisory positions will be subject to the approval of the U. S. Regional Forester, Schoenmann said.

The several Divisions of the Department, such as Fire, Forests, Parks, Fish and Game, are now working on detailed plans for work to be done out of the many Camps which are expected during the next month or two. These plans are collected and under Schoenmann's supervision are being organized into general working plans and estimates of time required, tools and equipment needed so that the actual work in the Camps may start off promptly soon after the crews are sent from Camp Custer.

A Dictatorship?
by LEONARD A. BARRETT

In the judgment of a large number of persons, the representative form of government in our country seems to be breaking down. The unprecedented power which congress has vested in the President makes it appear as though we are now functioning under a dictatorship. Comparing our country with Italy, some persons have loudly and even boastfully proclaimed that there is very little difference between the power vested in Mussolini and in our own President, both being that of a dictator.

The interesting thing about this criticism is that it is not only very obviously true when judged by only a cursory evaluation of the facts, but when dispassionately studied in the light of the real facts, the criticism is found to be very untrue. The power vested by congress in the President is practically the same as was vested in Woodrow Wilson at the time this country entered the World war. By means of this extraordinary power the President was able to mobilize an army and get things done more speedily; he was able to eliminate all red tape by not having to refer details to congress. So, the power now vested in the President is by no means a new or untried experiment. It has been exercised before with great advantage and to the best interests of our country.

It also should be remembered that there is a very important difference between the status of this delegated power in Italy and the United States. In the case of our President the power can be returned at any time to congress by a two-thirds vote. There is also no question but that if this invested power were directed toward dangerous ends it would be revoked instantly. The condition in Italy is quite different. Only nominally can it be said that Mussolini is responsible to the king. He is the government with no probability of a recall of that dictatorship, except by force, as might be created by a revolution. In our country it is an emergency measure only, and we can be sure will be voluntarily returned to congress when no longer needed. There is not the slightest possibility that the citizens of our country would ever tolerate, even for a moment, any substitute for our representative form of government. Let no person fear that the Constitution of the United States will ever become impaired.

GIVES BASIS OF SOUND BANKING

Speaker Outlines Threefold Cooperation Between Bankers, Government Officials and the Public to Maintain Bank Standards

TWO elements beside the bankers themselves are required in order to give the nation universally the type of banking it should have, Francis H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers Association declared in a recent address. He said that the efficiency of government officials upon whom the people rely to supervise the banks properly, and the patronage of the people themselves are factors in the kind of banks a community shall have.

"There can be no question that the people of the United States should have banks immune from failure and wholly free from bad or questionable banking," Mr. Sisson said. "It is not enough, as President Roosevelt has said, that while some bankers had been incompetent or dishonest, this was not true in the vast majority of our banks. A situation should exist in which there is not even a small minority of bankers open to question. There should be no room for dishonesty or incompetency to exercise any influence in banking anywhere."

"While bad faith and bad management enter the human factor in all types of business, their effects in banking should be surrounded by such special safeguards as to render them no longer a factor in bank failures. The responsibility for bringing this about, however, cannot rest upon the bankers alone, for the means to accomplish it are not wholly in their hands. There are other essential elements.

"One is the efficiency of government supervision. Since we rely so greatly upon supervision, it may, unless it is of the highest order in safeguarding the public interest, create a sense of false security. Supervision should render bad banking impossible, but it has failed to do so. There was supervision by presumably the highest type of bank supervisors in every one of the instances of questionable banking that has shocked the attention of the country during the past three years. Therefore a thorough strengthening of supervision is clearly called for if the people are to rely on it for the protection of their interests.

The Public's Part

"Another essential factor in maintaining good banks involves the part played by the public in banking. There is certainly a responsibility on the people themselves to support that type of banker whose rigid adherence to sound principles makes a sound bank, rather than to give their patronage to the easy going banker who may be easier to do business with, but whose methods create a weak bank.

"Bank customers are charged with a great responsibility in protecting the safety of their banks in respect to their utilization of the assets of the banks as borrowers. Banks have failed because many of their loans and securities, created in good faith by bankers in cooperating with the business interests of the country, proved unsound under subsequent conditions. An unsound loan is created by the borrower as well as the banker. A bank is only as sound as its community, and this applies also to the banking structure as a whole in relation to the economic condition of the nation as a whole.

A Semi-Public Institution

"A bank is truly a semi-public institution, but in a reciprocal sense—it has its obligations to the public, but so has the public equal obligations to the bank. No one who has not sound banking principles at heart has any business in a bank whether as banker or customer."

"The banker is a semi-public servant. He is charged with the heaviest of responsibilities and obligations that occur in our economic life. But he can meet these fully only through the cooperation of good laws, good public officials who are empowered to exercise authority over his bank, and good business methods on the part of business men generally who utilize his bank. Only through such cooperation by all elements in our nation's community life can we be assured of a failure-proof banking structure."

"The Administration at Washington has taken hold of this problem with a firm grasp of essentials and is exercising splendid leadership toward the desired end. The strongest feature of the government program will be found in recognizing the joint responsibility of the public, of business and of government officials together with the bankers themselves in creating the kind of banking the nation should have."

"The fundamental needs of banking reform are fewer banks, more adequately capitalized, better supervised and better managed, standardization of laws and methods, greater and more intelligent cooperation between government and banking, better understanding by the public of its joint responsibility in maintaining banking solvency and efficiency—these primary principles should be the foundation of our banking system of the future. For such a system, no guarantee of deposits would be necessary and the depositors would be fully protected."

STURGEON MYSTERY SOLVED

The mystery of number "41," a 75 pound sturgeon taken from the Manistee River late in April may be solved. Twenty-eight years ago he was caught, it is claimed, in a net in Lake St. Clair and was branded by Charles Trost, now a resident of Mt. Clemens. In 28 years the fish had added 34 pounds in weight and had moved his home from Lake St. Clair to Lake Michigan.

A crew of men working under the direction of the Department of Conservation a month ago at Junction Dam on the Manistee River were lifting rainbow trout and pike-perch over the dam that they might continue on up the river to spawn. Five large sturgeons were found among the thousands of fish. One of them wore a distinct brand "41" on his side. He was taken to the Paris Fish Hatchery and held in a pond, the Department of Conservation hoping that someone might be able to identify him.

The Department has now received a letter from Mr. Trost who claims to have branded the fish. "I put the number '41' on a sturgeon about 28 years ago," Mr. Trost's letter says. "At that time I was working for the Mt. Clemens Carp Fishery at Anchor Bay which is in Lake St. Clair near Mt. Clemens. We were seining for carp and obnoxious fish and we caught the sturgeon in the seine. The sturgeon at that time weighed 41 pounds; therefore the brand of '41' on the fish. After branding the fish, it was thrown back into the water."

PICKERS MAY RUIN BLUE BERRY MARKET

The blueberry crop which is depended upon by many Michigan residents for a period of profitable employment in the summer will be a disappointment unless great care is taken in picking to insure that the fruit taken is not infested with the larvae of flies, according to the entomology department at Michigan State College.

Michigan berries examined by federal inspectors last year were condemned for containing these insect larvae, and infested berries which are not discovered by inspectors will ruin the market for all blueberries as soon as consumers find out that some of the fruit is undesirable.

The remedy is simple. The flies which produce the larvae can not deposit eggs in the berries until they are fully ripe, so fruit which is picked before it is soft will not be infested. Hand picking will be necessary to obtain clean fruit. Beating the bushes or the use of rakes or scoops for picking will put wormy berries on the market and eventually ruin the demand for a Michigan product.

Shippers of blueberries should inform pickers of the need for care in picking and should use caution in buying fruit. If the berries are rolled down an incline and allowed to fall on a firm surface, good fruit will bounce over a low barrier while the soft fruit will fail to bounce and will be held.

Trials will show how steep an incline and how high a barrier should be used to sort the fruit.

It will be easier to obtain clean fruit if areas are picked often. Infrequent picking permits too many berries to become fully ripe.

WATCH POISON SPRAY ON UNWASHED FRUIT

Stricter regulations made by federal authorities will make it necessary for Michigan orchard owners to modify poison spray schedules or run the risk of having fruit condemned for showing too heavy residues of poisonous substances, according to a warning issued by the entomology department at Michigan State College.

Growers who do not own power washers for fruit will have to change the spraying schedule for the control of codling moth or the market for their fruit will be endangered. Fruit which will not be washed should not receive more than two sprays of lead arsenate. Calcium arsenate may be used in the second cover spray, but any additional sprays should be made with summer oil emulsion.

Three applications of lead arsenate can be used on fruit which will be washed, and calcium arsenate can be used for additional applications.

Timeliness of the spray applications and the use of supplementary measures, such as crapping the trees and banding, will materially aid the control of codling moth and will reduce the need for late arsenical sprays. The destruction of fruit "thinnings" by deep burying or immersion in water is another measure which reduces the moth population.

No spray containing any form of fluorine should be used at any time on Michigan fruit or vegetables. Traces of this substance on a food product will result in its being condemned by inspectors of the federal government. The entomology department will send detailed spraying instructions to those who write for them.

MOTORBOAT TRAFFIC OVER SPAWNING BEDS DANGEROUS

Motorboat traffic over bass and bluegill spawning beds may prove dangerous to the fish and their nests, according to the Department of Conservation which is asking all motor boat operators to refrain from passing over areas where fish may be spawning.

Speeding motor boats over spawning beds at this time of the year may prove disastrous to the season's crop of fish, it was said.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS HAVE TO SAY

E. M. T. DIRECTORS AT HOUGHTON LAKE

(Continued from first page) the money actually brings about the ruination of young men and boys. Money is a handicap to a normal boy. He can have more fun without it than he can with it.

What group has the best time—a bunch of snobbish, hot-house boys or a group of ragged and carefree boys on the corner lot? What boy has the best time—one wandering from one exclusive resort to another in company with his mother, a governess and a chauffeur or a boy of the same age playing with his pals at some nearby lake or creek?

Good advice for parents is not to create too much wealth for coming generations. Instead of aiding them to enjoy life the parents may actually be forcing their descendants to languish in prison cells. Children should be willed something of importance—good examples, health, character, willingness to work and other things that matter. Money, beyond enough to pay for necessities, is of little value.—Ingham County News, Mason.

Sunday dances are slowly but surely creeping into being in our community. It is far from being good and right. We hope public sentiment, good sense or something of a corrective measure asserts itself and gets us back to normalcy in our living. There are no people about our city or community so busy that they can't do all their dancing on week days or week day nights. We have let down the bar to everything else that once had the stamp of decency, but let us continue to hold Sunday nights a little more reverently.—Cheboygan Observer.

PLANNED LEGISLATION
As sensible a piece of legislation as has been proposed in the Michigan Legislature this session come from Martin R. Bradley, speaker of the House, in which position he must have ample opportunity to observe the great need of the thing he proposes.

Speaker Bradley's bill would create a bi-partisan legislative council which, between sessions, would prepare a program and draft bills to carry it out. The measure would create a commission of nine, composed of the lieutenant governor and three senators, the speaker of the house of representatives and four other members.

Commissions would report to the council made up of Democrats and Republicans alike, instead of to the governor. The work of the council would be completed by Dec. 1, more than a month before the regular session would begin and at that time every member, and the public at large would know the program to be recommended for consideration.

When the regular session opened bills would be ready for consideration and the legislature could do its work within three months and go home.

The economy represented by a 90-day session would offset many times the expense of the legislative council.

What a blessing such a steering mechanism would have been in this session of the legislature. How directly such a council could have moved to carry out the recommendation of the commission investigating governmental costs, the good work of which may go by default, for lack of a program to follow it up.

Planning your work and then working your plan is a simple but very effective procedure and that is all Mr. Bradley would do.—Rogers City Advance.

During the past week I traveled through Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin and everywhere I saw the announcement "We Serve Beer" or something with the objective of informing the passer-by that one might slake one's thirst there if one so desired. In fact I visited some of those places and found that there isn't any of the silk stocking hedging about the sale of beer in other states that there is in Michigan and there didn't appear to be any debauching of the public because of its absence. Perpendicular drinking or vertical drinking or any other form of drinking doesn't seem to bother the people of other states nor are there any commissions drawing fancy salaries and maintaining a horde of inspectors. The farce that is being imposed upon Michigan is more fully realized when one visits other states and notes the commonplace, everyday consideration that the sale of 3.2 beer is getting. No fuss and feathers; just a glass of beer for a nickel—yes, I saw beer sold for a nickel.—Tom Conlin in his Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

up and po's his boat all the way down the 16 miles; altho his sons would ask him to sit down and paddle. He could not get away from his old ways.

This calls to my mind another incident when H. C. McKinley lived near here at McKinley lake. My brother Leon and I were hunting, also McKinley. Leon and I only had one gun between us, an old musket. It was raining, and McKinley had a black raincoat on. He reached up as a bear would reach for an acorn. My brother brought his gun up and said, "There's a bear," but McKinley quickly stepped out of sight. I am wondering if McKinley still remembers this. He is now some eighty years old.

Another thing that happened only once in my lifetime was finding one December, two beautiful 10-point deer horns, shortly after I fenced my sheep ranch with a woven wire fence. One day I saw a large buck track in freshly fallen snow. I followed it up to my fence and found by his tracks that he could not get over the fence, so he made a circle and hit the fence with all his weight and knocked off both horns. I picked them up on each side as he struck the fence. Those horns I gave to Frank Serven; he mounted them on a shield, and I think maybe he still has them.

President Al Weber, who is the editor of the Cheboygan Observer, was master of ceremonies. He cleverly delegated certain responsibilities to some of his fellow officers and others and before the evening was over just about every county in Eastern Michigan had had an opportunity to contribute a few words to the program. A direful need of finances with which to conduct the work of the Association was easily manifest, but the men of the directorate are not of the type that quit or desert a task just because it is a hard one. You may just bet that the East Michigan Tourist association is going to continue to carry on. Real men are back of it, and they realize that Northern Michigan needs the organization, and they know that this is no time to quit. The work must go on. Of course it cannot hope to accomplish as much as it could if it had more finances, but it must not quit.

I have seen many thousand feet of logs float down the old AuSable, and love log driving; eat 5 meals a day and walk to camp 8 or 10 miles after doing a hard day's work. I have taken several parties the whole length of the stream and always enjoyed the trips, floating down stream on the bosom of the beautiful, much-loved AuSable.

I have taken trips with Jack Marshall down the Manistee, the Black river, and other streams and they are all beautiful, but when we get back to the old main stream of the AuSable there is love for it that I cannot explain. Perhaps it is because I spent most of my life here on it.

I took a trip on a yacht with Mr. Geo. Schlotman of Detroit (being his guest and guide when fishing for trout) on the grand north shore of Lake Superior, and it was grand; one caught brook trout up to 3 1/2 lbs. The streams and the lake were beautiful, but when I got back I could not help but notice the clearness of the water of the AuSable. I think the reason for this is that it winds through sandy country which filters its waters, hence its clearness. You know "AuSable" means, in French, "at the sands." Probably whoever named it years ago, named it that because it ran thru a sandy country.

My father loved this river so much that he bought 40 acres of land of Nels Michelson, so as to build and live on its banks.

Whereas, H. A. Bauman was for more than a fifth of a century affiliated with and deeply interested in the progress and development of the NorthEastern Michigan Development Bureau and the East Michigan Tourist Association, and

Whereas, Mr. William Foley (nee Elizabeth Bradley) would be well qualified to give more history in regard to the Fountain of Youth Island.

My brothers and brother-in-law Rube Babbitt, were pioneers in boarding and guiding grayling and trout fishermen.

One my brother John and I met George Pomeroy, guest of Mr. Mill and Mr. Clarence Brown at Simpson Lake (now the fur farm).

We guided for them fishing for trout on the preserve and on the lake for bass. Pomeroy wanted them to take a trip down the AuSable, so we brought them down. They caught 100 trout. Each one fished late so they wanted to stay all night. My father and mother had no rooms so they slept on the hay in the barn. It was then that Mr. Brown suggested to John and I that we should build log cabins to accommodate fishermen. Now the streams have many fine places.

I have no great desire to catch a lot of trout now, being satisfied if I get a few to eat, and being out fishing; enjoying wild life and the peacefulness of it ad.

Many of those in attendance at the meeting and banquet remained over for the night. A few enjoyed the thrills of the Johnson Rustic Dance palace until late in the evening. Others visited about the hotel in interesting conversation. It does seem that Johnson's place grows finer and better every year and it wasn't easy for some to leave.
